it all started a couple months ago when i went to Hilton head sc with my mom so i could work on getting a car, but with my mom there is always something extra. so i ended up watching my nephew for about a whole month waiting on that car. but in between time i grow very board and wasn't getting any affection because my girlfriend was so far away. So one day i asked my girlfriend about a ex of hers over the phone just to see if she had closed ties and all because of the pregnancy and the fact that i needed her to leave in the passed before that, but anyways when i asked about him she told me his was still trying to get with her telling her he loved her still and when i asked to she stop talking to him. she replied " i tell him we cant talk anymore". now in my head i know it's much more then that because they was dating for three years Straight. Out of jealousy and boredom i contact one of my ex girlfriends off of facebook and start talking with her i said alot of things i really did`nt mean at the time, but now its come back to haunt me. Today a friend of my girlfriends came to the house and i my girlfriend was at work. She asked me if i was trying to get back with my ex i told her no, and that i have not spoken with her in along time. Of course it was a lie, but i did`nt know what els to say, but now im scared to tell my girlfriend about it because i think she will found out soon but i don`t want her to leave me and kick me out the house as well what should i do?
